Premium Protein

Explore the potential of the Arboreto Premium Protein range and discover how to transform your culinary and nutritional experience

Discover Concepta's new Arboreto Premium Protein range, inspired by sesame, a plant native to tropical Africa and Asia, introduced to Brazil by the Portuguese in the 16th century. Renowned for its small seeds, sesame reveals a nutritious oil that has been valued in cooking and traditional medicine for centuries.

To enrich our range, we have incorporated babaçu, a palm tree native to the Amazon Rainforest. With its high starch and fiber content, it complements sesame, resulting in an exclusive product that offers excellent performance for the food and beverage industries.

Bio Abundance Program

The babaçu is a robust palm found in three Brazilian biomes: the Cerrado, Caatinga and Amazon Rainforest. Its small fruit produces a multifunctional oil that is widely used in cooking and the cosmetics industry. The coconuts are harvested and broken by women from traditional extractivist communities, known as “quebradeiras”, who are responsible for collecting and managing babaçu, as well as protecting and defending the green areas they inhabit.

Thanks to the fruit’s diversified market applications, babaçu has become an important source of income for these communities. Through the Bio Abundance Program, Concepta Ingredients collaborates by offering technical and necessary support. This program not only conserves the living forest, but also promotes socio-economic inclusion and contributes to reducing social inequality.

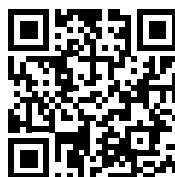

Every 20 tons
